-Soon be time to think about SAILORS OF ELIZABETHAN AGE

Memorial to Famous British Mariners Is Far Off the Tourlet Track.

Sir John Bean has persuaded the London county council to commemorate the Elizabethan sailors at Old Ratcliffe Cross, says the Manchester Guardian. The scheme hung fire for a time because the antiquaries could not fix the site of the cross, which has vanished as utterly as the name and reputation of the Ratcliffe highway near by. The place chosen is a little east of Rotherhithe tunnel, where a grimy wharf has preserved the name of the cross where so many of the stout-hearted explorers set sail for the northern seas.

Perhaps when Shadwell gets its riverside park there will be a few bold exploring sightseers from the West to look upon the memorial which is otherwise far from the tourist track as any spot in London. It shows square-ended Tudor ships under full sall above the names of Sir John Willoughby, Sir Martin Frobisher and other great names in Hakluyt and in English memories. Frobisher lies near Milton in St. Giles', Cripplegate, well within the tourist area.

If you go from the memorial up Butchers' row into Stepney you are in the traditional sailors' town, although nowadays you find the sailors farther east, where dockland has grown up since the Elizabethan sailors went to sea. The church in Stepney's one bit of green is the sailor's church of London, unless Deptford with memories of the shipbuilders is admitted to have as good a claim. All the children born at sea were baptized parishioners of Stepney. Mariners' tombs are as thick here as those of Dutch merchants in Austin Friars. The discoverers should go back by Wapping, packed in between London docks and the river and still keeping in a score of tarry inns suggestions of the Frobisher times. You can drink ale in the "North American Sailor" and think of the great days of old when they used to hang the pirates somewhere about Wapping Old Stairs. It was Johnson advised Boswell to explore Wapping, but Boswell did not find much that was exciting—"perhapsfrom want of sufficient exertion," he says

TAKE DISEASE FROM WHITES

Tuberculosis Among Alaskan Indians Has Been Laid at the Door of the "Paleface."

The great prevalence of all forms of tuberculosis among the Alaskan Indians, as proved by a report by Dr. Emil Krulish, is explained by the Journal of the American Medical Association as follows:

"Tuberculosis is a comparatively new infection among Indians, bestowed upon them by the benevolent paleface along with firewater and certain other blessings of civilization. Among these blessings must probably be counted scarlet fever, measles, influenza, whooping cough and diphtheria. Not yet possessing the racial immunity which it takes many generations to acquire, the poor Indian suffers from them in greater degree than does the white, and more frequently dies of them. Then there are the overcrowding and the unsanitary conditions prevailing in most of the home of tuberculosis sufferers; while at least this much good arises from their misfortune that after the disease is well developed in them its progress (unless they are well cared for) is rapid, and death removes what would otherwise remain a menacing focus of infection."

Tuberculosis was one of the chief causes of the dying out of the Inve all oved North America.

The German Troops Reported to Have Effected a Junction With Bulgarians.

TEUTONS WILL HAVE FIERCE FIGHTING

Berlin Halls Opening of Route to Constantinople Through Serbia as Forerunner of Collapse of Allies' Expedition.

London, Oct, 28,-The Germans have opened a road for troops from Berlin to Constantinople. The Teuton army which crossed the Danube at Orzoca has effected a junction east of Brza Palanka with Gen. Boyajieff's Bulgarians, who invaded Serbia near Prahovo. Patrols of the two armies met Wednesday, according to an official announcement from Berlin. The junction point is in northeastern Serbia near the Rumanian frontier and about 15 miles from the Hungarian border.

Face Serious Fighting. Before a through railway line for heavy transport can be opened, however, the Austro-Germans will face se rious fighting. They must gain control of the Belgrade-Saloniki line as far as Nish before they will have through communication by rail with the Turkish capital. Progress on this front is reported by Berlin.

The opening of a direct route to Constantinople through Serbia and Bulgaria is hailed in Berlin as a forerunner of the total collapse of the allies' Dardanelles expedition, of an invasion of Egypt and a blow at the Suez canal. It is declared to be the ending of the first-stage of the war in the near east.

The establishment of a route from Berlin to Constantinople had been expected here. Military critics and offcials admit the fear that Serbia is to be crushed in the north. In the south, however, in co-operation with the French, some successes have been gained against the Bulgarians, Follow ing the recapture of Veles by the Serbs, a furious battle is raging on a front between that city and Kumanova The Bulgarians are reported falling back toward Istip, which is reported to have been evacuated.

Look for Support From Rumania. The political situation in the Balkans still leads to the hope here that the allies will receive support from Rumania, while the internal situation in Bulgaria is described as critical, owing to dissatisfaction in high circles at the action of King Ferdinand in joining arms with Germany. It is rumored that the conspiracy against the king has been discovered and a number of the leaders shot.

Rumanian leaders also are declared to be showing dissatisfaction at the lassitude of the government and are carrying on a propaganda in favor of the allies. Berlin dispatches state that the impression prevails there that Rumania eventually will declare for the entente.
